

How the atrium of the refurbished library will look

The £50m Central Library and Archive redevelopment is a partnership between Liverpool City Council, Central Government and Inspire Partnership and will deliver a world class library in the centre of Liverpool. It will restore the fabulous historic fabric of the building providing high class visitor facilities with excellent access to the library's book collections and archive services. There will also be a highly visible welcoming entrance and new storage facilities for the archives and rare books to exacting modern standards.

During the Library redevelopment a smaller public service will operate in the city centre. It will be located on William Brown Street in the Horseshoe Gallery on the 2nd floor of the World Museum Liverpool, which is fully accessible. The service will operate from July 2010 to winter 2012 when the refurbished Central Library will open.

What services will be available?

We will make available the most popular items from the library collections but there will not be enough space to make everything available. Material not available including reference books, stack material and back copies of journals, will be safely stored throughout the closure period. Services will include:

- Lending books for adults and children including fiction and non fiction, graphic novels and large print
- Audio visual material
- Public computers and printing
- Business information including market research reports, trade directories and business books

- A general enquiry service – more detailed enquiries including business and patent information and archive and local studies queries will be dealt with at the City Satellite
- Popular current magazines and newspapers
- A small collection of directories
- Family history and local studies sources on microfilm and microfiche including census returns, local newspapers, street directories, cemetery registers, many parish registers and electoral registers, and national birth marriage and death indexes. The national probate index volumes will be available in hard copy
- Fax and photocopying service.

Also - Freely available in the library

- Ancestry.com
- Business start up and company information from Cobra, Fame and Kompass, online Law reports and Halsburys law and statutes from LexisNexis and Lawtel
- Market Research from Mintel and Keynote.

Some of the following databases are freely available on our website from home or work if you are a library member:

- British Standards
- Current and historical national and local newspapers, including the Liverpool Daily Post and Echo from 2002, and The Times Digital Archive (1785-1985)
- Oxford Reference Online including Grove Art and Music; Dictionary of National Biography; Oxford English Dictionary; Who's Who and over 100 reference works covering language, literature, science, social sciences, religion and more.

City Satellite Service

During the Central Library redevelopment an archive, enquiry and business information service will still operate. Enquiries can be made by telephone, email and post. It will be located on Wellington Employment Park South. This is located just 2 miles north of the city centre adjacent to Sandhills Merseyrail station and just off the A565 Derby Road. The service will operate from July 2010 to winter 2012 when the refurbished library will open.

The City Satellite will have:

- Access by appointment to original archives and local studies material (24hr notice required). Most archive and local studies collections will be available by appointment only but some will require a longer period of notice than 24 hours. Some collections where there are substitute copies, such as local newspapers on microfilm, will not be available. Please check carefully with staff in advance of a visit.
- Telephone, postal and email enquiry service for:
Business and Intellectual Property information Service, Record Office Research Service, Vocal scores and orchestral parts service (telephone, post, email only)
